Latest stats provided by traffic police show that of all accidents in the city, 75.66% occur on straight roads

Number of accidents rose to 752 in 2022; Sundays remain most deadly and Saturdays safest

Has to be the heights of irony that it is hard to find straight roads in Bengaluru, but it is those existing straight roads that are turning out to be major danger zones. Data reveals that the straight stretches are major accident spots.

Thanks to the city's haphazard growth and uneven planning, it has a limited number of straight stretches. And statistics show most 'fatal' accidents occur on these roads. According to the latest statistics provided by the traffic police, a majority of accidents in the city occur on straight roads. In fact, 75.66% of accidents take place on straight roads, while only 4.9% occur at T junctions and 0.79% at Y junctions.

Reflecting on this data, a police officer explained, "Nationally, most fatal accidents happen on straight roads. When there are junctions, drivers tend to be more cautious about the approaching road. However, overconfident drivers may speed up or drive recklessly on straight roads, leading to a loss of control. Additionally, accidents can also occur on straight roads due to something coming in the way such as pedestrians."

Overall, the number of accidents

Parking trouble

Lack of parking space for cycles proving deterrent to first, last-mile connectivity of metro

Commuters who use their cycles for the purpose of first and last-mile connectivity have complained of hassles due to the lack of designated parking facilities for cycles at metro stations.

A regular metro commuter shared an instance of his acquaintance cycling to the metro station. He mentioned that there's no cycle parking at the stations. Though he tried parking it, he was afraid that the security would cause trouble or object, or may even puncture the tyres. He added that designated cycle parking spaces at the metro stations would attract many commuters.

Nihar Thakkar, a cyclist, said that the Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) needs to work towards collaborating with BMTC for high-frequency feeder bus routes. He explained, "The routes should not just follow existing bus routes but need to be designed to connect nearby residential, commercial and transport hubs. This would significantly improve sustainable last-mile connectivity over time,"

He added that safe bicycle parking at every station is important. "There is limited last-mile connectivity right now via buses and cycle lanes. Providing parking for other types of vehicles would also be helpful as

The book 'A Gardener and a Gentleman' by Meera Iyer is based on Rao Bahadur HC Javaraya who played a vital role in shaping modern Karnataka

The iconic lantern-shaped granite watchtower at the West Gate of Bengaluru's Lalbagh faced the threat of demolition in the past. However, Rao Bahadur HC Javaraya had a different vision. He chose to relocate the structure to the Basavanagudi gate of Lalbagh Garden. With meticulous planning and the numbering of each granite stone, Javaraya successfully dismantled and reconstructed the watchtower, becoming one of the key individuals who contributed to the transformation of Lalbagh Garden.

Recently, historian and author Meera Iyer launched her book, 'A Gardener and a Gentleman', based on Javaraya. On the occasion of the launch, she said, "Javaraya not only transformed the appearance of Lalbagh and enhanced Cubbon Park's beauty but also created well-maintained gardens in various new government institutions in Bengaluru. These natural heritage sites are intertwined with the city's built heritage, resembling a conversation held amidst those gardens."

Javaraya, a pioneering figure in horticultural sciences, skillfully merged Western techniques with native traditions to transform Bengaluru into a garden city and played a vital role in shaping modern Karnataka. After failing his FA examination, Javaraya made the decision to join the Agriculture College and Research Institute.

Rajeev Gowda, former Rajya Sabha MP and grandson-in-law of Javaraya, stated, "The value of Javaraya's ideas is invaluable for the future, emphasising lessons on our responsibility towards the environment, addressing climate change, and revitalising Bengaluru's garden city heritage."

> "The value of Javaraya's ideas is invaluable for the future, emphasising lessons on our responsibility towards the environment
> – Rajeev Gowda

Bengaluru apples

Javaraya's grandson, Harish Padmanabha, considers his grandfather to be more of a 'fruit man', particularly excelling in apple production. Harish has diligently preserved Javaraya's work and accomplishments, ensuring that Javaraya's story is known to all.

Although apples typically require a specific climate to grow, Javaraya successfully cultivated an apple variety known as the Rome Beauty in Bengaluru. He documented the challenges of growing these apples in a research paper and personally travelled to Kashmir to inspect their quality before sending them out. Hence, he played a significant role in making apple cultivation famous in Bengaluru.

Currently, it is not only apples that have disappeared from Bengaluru, but the city is also gradually losing its greenery. Just as few people are aware that the traffic circle outside the Lalbagh Main Gate is officially named the HC Javaraya Circle, there is a need to familiarise individuals with his ideology in order to restore the greenery in Bengaluru.

As students in Bengaluru plan to take the next step to expand their learning horizons by figuring out what to do after their PU, here's an opportunity for them to consult experts and gain useful knowledge on what to opt for.

Vijay Karnataka, a sister concern of Bangalore Mirror, is all set to organise a programme called the VK Education Fair. The event, which spans two days, will showcase professionals from the educational sector. It will serve as a comprehensive platform to address all queries related to education.

Several top educational institutions are expected to participate in the programme, providing information about campuses, available courses, and tuition fees. Furthermore, the participants can engage in counselling sessions that will be conducted by experts to address student confusion. The experts will be addressing various doubts that students have about colleges and subjects to opt for.

Students can also learn about the proximity of the colleges to their homes, placement opportunities, and more.

A dad's priority: What's next?

New fathers tend to prioritise children's education or their retirement, over their children's marriage, reveals study

Father's Day is the perfect opportunity to recognise and thank dads for being the foundation of their families. The date of June 18, 2023, has been chosen as Father's Day for this year. Fathers frequently become their children's closest friends and provide them with care, security, and company. With the changing times, there is a huge responsibility on fathers in terms of managing finances and looking after the needs and requirements of their families.

To understand how fathers are achieving their financial targets, research has been conducted. This extensive study offers helpful insights into how dads in India are now addressing their financial goals. It is based on data collected from 17,000 individuals across 1,600 locations with 29,021 financial objectives.

In honour of Father's Day, FinEdge undertook research to learn more about fathers' financial aspirations and investment habits throughout the nation and at all stages of life.

According to the survey, there are some important facts that have come to light.

Planning for children's higher education

A home purchase is the top priority goal for fathers under the age of 30, with only 6 per cent of them actively planning for their children's futures. One in five young fathers prioritises 'wealth creation' as their top goal, indicating a more speculative mindset and a lack of purpose-based investing before the age of 30. Planning for children's higher education becomes more important after the age of 40.

Another important aspect of this study is giving more importance to the daughter's education.

Only 3 per cent of dads in the 40–50 age range and 1 per cent of dads in the 30–40 age range prioritise their children getting married.

However, among dads over 50, this rate considerably increases to 21 per cent. According to the report, fewer dads in India are prioritising early marriage above their daughters' education and empowerment.

> It reflects that deep-rooted societal changes are now underway, with more young people exercising their freedom of choice with respect
> –Harsh Gahlaut, FinEdge

Retirement planning is becoming more important, with younger fathers setting the example.

Fathers of all ages and stages of life are increasingly placing retirement planning at the top of their priority lists.

Contrary to expectations, more dads under the age of 30 (26 per cent) prioritise their retirement over other aspirations than those between the ages of 30 and 40 (22 per cent).

Minimal regional bias in prioritising a child's future. The location does not appear to have a substantial impact on this objective.

24 per cent of respondents from the south zone prioritised their retirement over their child's education, compared to 21 per cent from other regions, indicating a slightly higher awareness of the importance of retirement planning in this demographic. 60 per cent of fathers from the north and east regions named planning for their child's education as their top priority goal, compared to 57 per cent from the west and south.

Commenting on the entire survey, Harsh Gahlaut, CEO and co-founder, said, "The results of the study provide in-depth insights about the financial goals and investing patterns of fathers across the country at different life stages. It is very encouraging to witness paradigm shifts in how new fathers are now prioritising their children's education—or their own retirement—instead of their children's marriages. Also, it reflects that deep-rooted societal changes are now underway, with more young people exercising their freedom of choice with respect to previously 'automatic' life choices such as getting married at a certain age or having kids.

"Needless to say, fathers play a critical role in setting up a robust financial future for their families. At FinEdge, we strongly believe that investing with clear financial goals in mind makes all the difference when it comes to managing behavioural traps and creating long-term wealth," he concluded.

Making Father's Day extra special

Father's Day is a perfect opportunity to express our love and appreciation for the unsung heroes in our lives. Even if your dad insists he doesn't want anything for Father's Day, it's still important to show your appreciation and love for him. Small gestures and thoughtful gifts can go a long way towards expressing your gratitude. It's time to let him know how much he means to you and how grateful you are for his love and support. Here are some unique ways to pamper your dad.

Prepare a special breakfast

Cooking for your dad is a wonderful idea to start Father's Day with a heartfelt note. Find out your dad's favourite breakfast dishes and consider adding a personal touch to the meal. If possible, get the whole family involved in preparing the breakfast.

Wellness package

A wellness retreat will help him unwind and rejuvenate. Consider his preferences, such as a meditation retreat or a spa resort with various relaxation treatments. Remind your father to fully immerse himself in the retreat and encourage him to disconnect from work and daily responsibilities, allowing him to fully relax and rejuvenate.

Get creative

Select a few meaningful and memorable old photos that hold significance and evoke nostalgia for both you and your dad.
Try to recreate the original setting or background of the image. Once you have recreated the photos, share them on social media.

House party

Invite family members or friends to participate in the party. Ask each participant, including your dad, to prepare their best jokes or games.

Stay order halts BBMP from conducting any major demolition drive in Munnekollal

Melvin Mathew

BBMP officials were successful in removing encroachments in only three areas: two sheds, a 20 metre-long road, and a 200-metre-long compound wall near Muneshwara temple built on a rajakaluve

The Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike's (BBMP) efforts to resume the encroachment eviction drive from stormwater drains have failed as residents have held up a stay order. Palike officials say they were unaware of these stay orders on 21 survey numbers.

Owing to the recent tragedy at KR Circle Underpass, the focus has shifted back to rajakaluves and stormwater drains. The civic body has been in the process of removing encroachments from stormwater drains to prevent flooding in the area. BBMP had identified that most of these encroachments were in Mahadevapura and KR Puram.

In an attempt to resume the encroachment eviction drive, they had planned an eviction drive in Spice Garden, Munnekollal. According to them, 21 survey numbers had been identified for the encroachment drive, and the drive was expected to start by 10:30 am. However, their officials were caught by surprise as the residents held up a stay order.

A senior BBMP official told Bangalore Mirror, "We had planned a drive in Spice Garden, Munnekollal, but there were stay orders we were not aware of. Officials had to return without removing any major encroachments. We had planned for the removal of 21 encroachments."

> "Officials had to return without removing any major encroachments. We had planned for the removal of 21 encroachments – BBMP official Palike officials were successful in removing encroachments in three areas: two sheds, a 20 metre-long road, and a 200-metre-long compound wall near Muneshwara temple built on a rajakaluve. BBMP has slotted the clearance of encroachments on Panathur and Doddanekundi on July 16.

Residents affected by the drive said that they were not informed about it. "We had no information about the demolition drive. At around 3 pm, officials from BBMP's Stormwater Drain (SWD) department came to my residence, and that's how we came to know. We secured stay orders for the entire layout in September 2022. The layout mostly consists of families. How are we supposed to evict on such short notice?" said a resident of the area.

Recently, the BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Giri Nath had instructed officials to hasten the eviction drive due to the rains. He also told media persons that in the past 15 days, the agency had removed 25-30 encroachments. As of now, the Palike has successfully cleared 88 encroachments and 666 are in the process of being cleared. In 2017, BBMP identified 2,951 encroachments, and in 2023, they identified 2,167.

Road-widening hot topic at Brand B'luru meet

INSET: Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar at a press conference; A meeting with industry captains has been scheduled for next week, he said

The first meeting of Brand Bengaluru was held on Saturday, with numerous stakeholders brainstorming alongside Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar and other MLAs. This marks the initial round of meetings and will be followed by more such gatherings. The attendees included industrialists, educationists, NGOs, IT captains, and property developers.

Discussions were held on various topics, including improving the high-density corridor, extending the metro, and decongesting Bengaluru. Some participants expressed dissatisfaction with the delay in executing the suburban rail project. Complaints were also raised regarding the withholding of work due to TDR, and many attendees requested road widening to be taken up at the earliest.

A proposal for elevated roads was presented as well. Notably, there are 20 important junctions in Bengaluru, such as Hebbal, KR Puram, and Goraguntepalya, which serve as entry points and require decongestion. The completion of the peripheral ring road, connecting the remaining half, was also demanded since NICE road currently covers only half of the peripheral road.

Suggestions were also made to ensure timely completion of projects, and some individuals offered suggestions on reducing corruption. The construction of tunnel roads throughout the city was proposed, and it was suggested to bring in experts to undertake this project on a build, operate, and transfer basis, minimising the financial burden. Many attendees suggested that Bengaluru, being a global city, should remain open 24x7. Additionally, there was a recommendation for a new comprehensive development plan. Suggestions were also made to create additional parking spaces, and the possibility of organising the Bengaluru festival was discussed.

> "Following the receipt of ideas, a committee will be established, which will develop a blueprint within the next six months – DK Shivakumar, Deputy Chief Minister of Karnataka

Shivakumar said, "Next week, a meeting with industry captains is scheduled, during which discussions will also involve gathering opinions from the public. To facilitate this, plans are underway to launch a website where people can log in and share their ideas. Analysing the feasibility of the proposals, it is essential to keep the state's economy in mind when designing these projects. Following the receipt of ideas, a committee will be established, comprising officials, stakeholders, and others, which will develop a blueprint within the next six months. Some of them suggested creating more satellite towns. I want to state that these initiatives would require time. While road widening is necessary, demolishing every building is not feasible as people have invested their money in constructing their homes. Nevertheless, a solution will be sought."

In light of the meeting, there was speculation that the Bengaluru Agenda Task Force, initially created by SM Krishna during his tenure as Chief Minister, may be reinstated. When asked about the possibility of starting a task force, Shivakumar responded, "The suggestions had been received, and further discussions with officials would take place before making a decision. The process will involve developing a blueprint and subsequent discussions at a second level."

Mysuru Road-NICE Road junction expressway has been causing congestion chaos for commuters

Ahna Prakash

Vehicles at the junction of ORR and Mysuru-Bengaluru expressway

The Mysuru Road-NICE Road junction expressway narrows into two lanes, causing congestion and a lot of inconvenience for commuters on the stretch. In order to address these traffic concerns Suman D Pennekar, DCP Traffic West, recently paid a visit to the spot along with Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Traffic Engineering Cell (TEC) officials.

"During weekends, we experience a lot of traffic congestion - both incoming and outgoing, which is why we went along with a team from BBMP. They have identified the issue and there is potential for adding a small lane, a single lane adjacent to the existing two lanes, for a stretch of half-a-kilometre," she said.

She added that this would help facilitate smooth traffic flow. The work will be carried out from Saccidananda Ashram, located at the end of the expressway, to the Tata showroom.

"There is a small protrusion on the road near a stormwater drain, which is causing hindrance to smooth flow of traffic. BBMP has assured us that they will address this by levelling it. The walls of the stormwater drain project onto the road, creating a slight hazard. Vehicles approaching the expressway cannot see the protrusion and are forced to make a sudden detour," said Pennekar.

She further explained that the traffic police and BBMP are facing challenges in implementing the solution as it is situated at the end of the expressway, outside their jurisdiction.

"It is a part of Ramangara and falls outside the jurisdiction of Bengaluru, which is why it has been somewhat neglected. However, it has been identified because it affects incoming traffic to the city via Kengeri," she added.

When asked about the increasing number of accidents on the expressway, the DCP stated that the expressway does not fall under their jurisdiction. "Our only concern is to widen the end of the expressway slightly. Our jurisdiction ends at the conclusion of Nice Road itself. Just at the end, within a half-kilometre stretch, some issues have been identified, and we are working towards resolving them," she added.

The Omnipresent Spirit of Education Called BRS

It has been a year since the passing away of Prof. Dr. B.R. Srinivasa, a renowned educationist and philanthropist who left an indelible mark on the educational landscape of Karnataka and beyond. Serving with zeal and dedication he showered care and affection on all his students. A life long Bramhachari. He considered his students as his children. He was strict and sometimes harsh. But, never callous or indifferent towards his students and colleagues. He was a source of hope for hundreds of students.

- Joining Sri Kongadiyappa College, Doddaballapura as a Lecturer in Mathematics, he retired as its Principal in 2006. A Doctorate holder in the subject, his areas of interest included Philosophy, Literature and the Humanities. His idea of education was broad and holistic enough to cover several disciplines. After retirement, he remained an integral part of the College till his last breath..
- Even before the government introduced mid-day the meals scheme he introduced it in Kongadiyappa Degree College. He put his money into it and got a helping hand from many. This project proved to be a boon for students in rural areas. Even today, this scheme is being continued with the help of generous donors. Not many colleges in Karnataka have such a scheme.
- BRS played a key role in getting grants for the complete renovation of University Vishweshwarayya College of Engineering (UVCE) in K.R. Circle, in making the post of the Principal hassle-free and in modernising the library. During the tenure of Sri.Thimmappa as Vice-Chancellor, Dr. B.R.S was a member of the Academic Council and Syndicate of Bangalore University. He was able to convince the VC, that these steps were vital for the survival of the college.
- BRS also provided yeoman service at the Maths Department of Tumkur University and provided valuable advice and support at various institutions, including NMKRV College, Vijaya College, National College, BMS College, TIFR-CAM (Bangalore), and Bharatiyar University (Coimbatore, TN).
- In spite of his many achievements and contributions, Prof. Srinivasa never craved for personal fame. He focused his talents on leading the cause of education and improving the lives of those around him. We are grateful for his legacy and are inspired by his example.

Dr. B.R.Srinivasa will always be remembered as a visionary leader and a true champion of education from the Mudumbai Zamindar family of Vedamma and Raja Iyengar. BRS was like Nature, which takes the essence of the earth and gives essence to all living things.

Photography is a modern, creative medium, but Indians took to it like ducks to water. In 1849, the first studios opened in Calcutta. The material for photography used to be similar to gunpowder at that time, which used to be imported in ships. At the time, acquiring the material and a camera was a matter of fascination for Indians.

All this and more interesting nuggets about photography were revealed by Gayatri Sinha, curator, writer and founder and director of Critical Collective at the The Museum of Art and Photography (MAP) in the city recently.

"I tried to track how the world of photography was made over 150 years. I have tried to look at how we look at bodies which were obsessively photographed in studios and pop-up studios and streets," she said.

Elaborating on the history of how photography reached India, she said, "Samuel Bourne came to India from Nottingham in 1863. He was here for seven years and he revolutionised how the studios dealt with photographs. The studios he started in Kolkata that closed down in 2016 left the legacy behind. His photography was cynical which included dancing figures, wives, and the kind of pictures he wanted to sell in India where he would make a fortune. Through architecture and landscape, he wanted to point to the size and scale of photos."

An interesting story is of when he went to Manirang Pass for a shooting session. Going with him were 60 people, who had to carry the big glass plate negatives. These frames were developed out in the open air which was a massive exercise. Manirang pass at 18,600 ft was extremely tough to photograph because of the height. But the figures in the picture are like ants, elucidating the scale of the picture.

The 1850s was an important time as portraiture started to come to India then. "With the East India company came the printing presses which displeased the artists. The picture of Bahadur Shah Zafar, the last emperor, was sent to London to mark the end of the grand Mughal empire. The image captures him just before he was exiled to Rangoon. The British started the Zoological, Archaeological, Historical and Geological surveys and surveys of the community that make up India. This was a matter of curiosity for them as they hadn't seen this kind of highly stratified and complex kind of networks of communities such as in India."

From 1868-1875, the picture project called 'People of India' was massive as it consisted of more than 500 photos by British and Indian photographers. The idea was to show the world how Indians looked like. She added that there is passivity and stillness of people in these images, as they were plucked out of their natural environment and placed for photography. The categorisation of these people was that of thieves, murderous class of people and merchantiles.

"At the same time, there was enthusiasm for the camera. One of the first houses was Udaipur. Two servants were trained for photography - Mohanlal and Shivlal. They might be innocuous but their names are written in gold in photography history in India because they were manipulating the cameras," she revealed.

"I have tried to look at how we look at bodies that were obsessively photographed in studios and pop-up studios and streets

The Daroga Abbas Ali albums were one of the most unique. "Delhi, Bombay and Calcutta had become hubs for photography. With Bombay and Calcutta being trading ports, photographic material would reach here. But a city like Lucknow brought out photographic wealth as well. The courtesan culture is brought about in these images." Ali dressed the women in clothes that were 20 years older than their time and clicked them. A kind of exoticisation can be seen in these pictures.

Maharaja Ram Singh was not very well known, but was a prominent figure in Indian photography. "His father passed away when he was two and he was brought up by English nannies. All his work is self portraiture. He handpainted one of his photos and sent it across to all parts of Rajasthan with a political purpose." The photo was of Shaivism whereas his Jaipur family were Vaishnavites. He tries to aggressively push for Shaivism and builds Shiva temples. The largest number of pictures on Shaivism in those times came from Jaipur.

Umrao Singh Sher Gill was a contrast as compared to Maharaja Ram Singh's photography. He's known for the Sher Gill archive. "He makes himself the subject of his own photography. A Punjabi aristocrat, unlike the grandeur of Ram Singh, he turns the camera onto himself. The luxury of the Sher Gill homes can be seen in his photography. The intimacy of the family setting could be seen. Some photos were clicked when the family was in Hungary from 1912. This was a period of the first world war, the whole of Europe was in turmoil. But the photographs had no sign of hunger, noise on the streets, people rushing around and soldiers."

Mohandas Gandhi was another figure to be photographed the most. "When he comes back from England, he prefers the clothes of a Kathiawadi farmer and not the usual suit. Walter Bosshard clicked most of Gandhi's pictures. He comes across Asia via Afghanistan and follows Gandhi to Sabarmati to click pictures. We have pictures of Gandhi shaving, in a suit, reading the newspapers and wearing the single cloth."

Bringing in the scenario of current Indian photography, Gayatri shed light on Gauri Gill, another photographer. "She is an interesting photographer as her work changes from series to series with intense drama. She does not want to turn the camera on herself. The communities appear with masks and she chooses their act of appearance."

Coming to the most interesting aspect of photography, the other mediums never talk about the crowd, whether it is painting, sculpture or cinema. "Walter Bossard clicked streams of people in whites coming to visit Gandhi. It is the crowd that marks the iconic moment. The crowd has no idea about them being photographed. There are also photographs of partitions with trains of people." There are also photos of women who might have been raped, lost their property or widowed. They shave their heads and wear white cloth and their identities are lost forever. This is unique to India. There is also an image of Patna railway station, where workers from many cities are coming back home due to the pandemic.

"Historically, if we remove these pictures, there is no evidence of these events. The appropriation of these photographs is genius. We determine how the loved ones are depicted. There is a social entity in them," she signed off.

An idea to ease traffic!

BMRCL to allow single-lane traffic under metro viaduct at twin flyover near Doddanekundi; bringing a new concept of portal piers for this

File photo of the twin flyover near Doddanekundi; traffic will flow on both sides and under the viaduct

In a one-of-a-kind move, Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) will be allowing single-lane traffic under the metro viaduct at the twin flyover near Doddanekundi. While most viaducts have the median at the centre, BMRCL is bringing a new concept of portal piers to achieve this.

In most places where metro viaducts are erected, traffic flows on both sides of the median. With the median at the centre, the space remains unutilised. With the portal pier design, traffic will flow on both sides and under the viaduct. The central lane under the twin flyover near Doddanekundi is expected to be completed soon and is likely to be open to traffic by next week.

The design was implemented after the Mahadevapura Task Force made a request to BMRCL in 2019. "In Outer Ring Road (ORR), we have the concept of a twin flyover, but back then, the middle space was left for the Bus Rapid Transport System. The medians at the centre of the metro would force traffic on service roads. In 2019, MTF and residents met BMRCL MD to suggest the portal pier concept. The two pillars would be erected at the edge of both sides of the flyover, allowing for passage through the middle lane. The twin pillars would also have provisions for the installation of a skywalk for metro commuters connecting metro stations to IT parks. The first middle lane is expected to be opened to traffic by next week," said the General Secretary of Mahadevapura Task Force (Mobility), Clement Jayakumar.

> "In Outer Ring Road (ORR), we have the concept of a twin flyover, but back then, the middle space was left for the Bus Rapid Transport Systems – Clement Jayakumar, Mahadevapura Task Force (Mobility)

The cost of constructing and asphalting the lane is being managed by BMRCL under the funds allocated for Phase 2A.

Similarly, the portal piers are being implemented in multiple places on the ORR. As of now, work is in progress on the ORR Devakrishnahalli flyover, Bellandur flyover, Agara flyover, and HSR flyover.

Experts say that there is no design flaw, but daily load needs to be taken into consideration. "The design will have a prefabricated or cast on-site framework allowing for a flexible lane concept. It allows traffic to move in the direction of choice. In all advanced countries, the concept is being used. The design does not weaken the infrastructure in any way, but construction needs to be implemented as per standards. Depending on the volume of traffic density and growth over five years, the design should be constructed.

The design should be planned by taking into consideration the load on the structure. Ample measures should be taken to ensure that construction quality is maintained," said civil engineering expert MN Sreehari.

Tennis prodigy eyes top honours in Berlin

Karnataka's Eramma will be one of the athletes competing in tennis at the Special Olympics World Summer Games 2023 in Berlin at the ongoing Special Olympics World Summer Games 2023 in Berlin, Germany which will take place between June 17 and June 25.

A contingent comprising 198 athletes and unified partners and 57 coaches are set to participate in the prestigious event across 16 sports from India.

Growing up in the small village of Taranagar, in Bellary district, North Karnataka, the 22-year-old Eramma had very little exposure to sports. Her parents were farmers, responsible for supporting her and her two siblings. Eramma was born hearing impaired and also acquired a speech deficiency when growing up, leading to deficient cognitive abilities. Communication was never a problem though, and she would, along with her two siblings, spend a lot of her time outdoors, running in the sun and playing whatever games their imagination could think up.

When Eramma was around 14 years old, she was enrolled in the Tamanna School in Toranagallu, established for children from families with lower socio-economic abilities, by her uncle. Her uncle also decided to foster her.

A crane operator at the Bellari plant, his residence was closer to the school and made it a viable option for everyone involved. Very soon, Eramma made the most of the sports facilities available within, establishing herself as a multi-talented athlete.

"She started off as a runner, and then two years later when she was 16, she started playing table tennis," Rajesh Vhanne said. Vhanne has been the head of sports at the school since 2016.

At the World Games, Eramma will take part in the singles, the women's doubles as well as the mixed doubles.

PIC FOR REPRESENTATION ONLY

City police have informed the Karnataka Chief Minister's Office (CMO) that they will start sensitisation campaigns for residents' welfare associations (RWAs) in different neighbourhoods. The purpose of this is to educate people to be sensitive towards gig workers like delivery agents.

This comes after residents of a flat in Electronic City trashed a Zomato food delivery person. The incident occurred when an 8-year-old girl falsely accused him of forcefully taking her to the terrace. However, it was later discovered through CCTV footage that the child had made a false accusation. She had actually gone to the terrace by herself and was playing there.

The probe was initiated following a media report, which caught the attention of Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma. He tweeted about the mistreatment of an Assamese delivery boy by locals based on unfounded accusations. Sarma included the Karnataka Chief Minister's Office as a recipient in his tweet and urged the state government to take action.

In response to Sarma's tweet, the Karnataka Chief Minister's Office contacted the Bengaluru police commissioner and requested a report within 12 hours.

The Karnataka CMO informed its Assam counterpart that an investigation is being conducted in response to the harassment of the Zomato delivery person.

Sources also indicate that the police are investigating whether the incident could be related to the person's ethnicity.

Missing: The joy of play

Singasandra kids struggle to find grounds to play: residents demand playgrounds in area

Children in Singasandra are facing difficulties finding places to play, as there are hardly any playgrounds in the area. All they are left with is to play on the roads. However, playing on roads exposes them to the risk of accidents and frequent play on roads leads to complaints from neighbours of screaming and the possibility of damage to doors and windows. Therefore, residents are demanding the allocation of playgrounds for the kids.

Sunanda Krishna, a resident, emphasised the importance of playgrounds, stating, "Playgrounds facilitate social interaction, communication, and the development of essential interpersonal skills.

They also provide children with opportunities to nurture their creativity, problem-solving abilities, and imagination. Thus, a playground represents more than just a recreational space; it is an educational and developmental hub for the entire community."

Children are left to play on the roads in the area. However, playing on roads exposes them to the risk of accidents

She added that it is disheartening to know that a ward like Singasandra is facing a lack of playgrounds. Though residents have filed numerous complaints with the authorities, demanding playgrounds, unfortunately, they haven't had any success. Other residents too added that there's no place in the neighbourhood where they can send their children to play as they don't feel safe.

Mamatha Ramesh, who is also a resident, said, "Every time parents think of sending their kids to play outside, they feel scared because there is no nearby place they can trust, which restricts our children from going out to play."

Echoing this sentiment, Yamuna Srinivas, another resident, explained, "It is concerning that our kids may not have exposure to the outside world, as all I see this generation doing is sitting and using their parents' phones or watching videos on the internet."

Meanwhile, Manjunath S, a local leader, assured, "The concerns of the parents are highly understandable, and we will make efforts to address the issue at the government level. We hope that necessary actions will be taken to establish playgrounds."

DID YOU KNOW?

Hesaraghatta Lake is situated about 18 km northwest of Bengaluru. This artificial reservoir was constructed in 1894 and is said to be a freshwater lake that was formed across the Arkavathy River. This lake was created with the purpose of catering to the drinking water requirements of the city. In Bengaluru, the water supply requirements are partially fulfilled by two rivers: the Arkavathy and the Kaveri. In order to harness the water resources of the former, two reservoirs were constructed. Hesaraghatta Lake is one of the reservoirs among them.

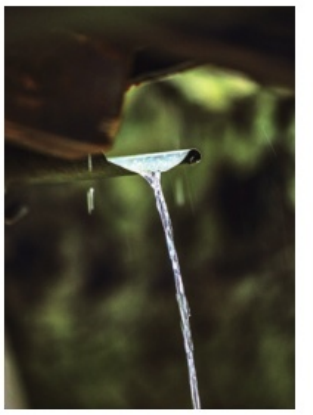
where Bengalureans speak their mind

How can Bengalureans practise rainwater harvesting at homes?

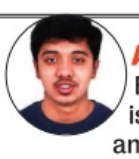


Aditya Kamble, BM Reader
Bengalureans can practise rainwater harvesting at home by installing or creating a rainwater separator and storage tank filter. This simple valve blocks the entry of water into the tank during roof cleaning.

Mohammed Junaid, BM Reader
Cleaning your catchment area is essential, as it is where most of the rainwater is received and can be diverted. Rainwater can be redirected towards the container using PVC pipes. Installing a rain separator is also crucial.

Sneha Bhat, BM Reader
During rainy seasons, instead of water accumulating in basements, it would be beneficial to create pavements or pipes that lead the water to a pit. This system can be used in situations when the pump fails or during dry spells.

Rajshree Rajesh, BM Reader
Community planning is vital in effectively managing rainwater. Creating slanting rooftop rainwater harvesting systems in standalone houses, where multiple slanting roofs are connected to a tank, can be a practical approach.



Anuj Sethi, BM Reader
By ensuring underground water is clean and filtered and avoiding any wastage, we can contribute to preserving this valuable resource. Every drop of rainwater counts and adds up to replenish the underground water reserves.

Bhaasita Pvaman, BM Reader
Constructing underground tanks to collect rainwater from roofs is an effective method to utilise rainwater for future use. These tanks act as containers to store rainwater.

All problems solved

Dear Coleen

I met my husband when we were in our mid-30s and we're both turning 40 next year. I've always wanted children, but I never found myself in the right relationship at the right time. When I met my husband he seemed keen to start a family, at least that's what he said.
But while there's no sense of urgency with him, I think about it constantly. I realise I'm running out of time in terms of conceiving naturally, so I broached the baby subject again last week and was very upset by what he said. He went on about how happy we've been over the past few years and was I sure I wanted to have a family at this point? It wasn't a "no", but I was just very disappointed by how he felt, as I thought we both wanted the same things. We've both been a bit subdued since the "big chat" and I'm not sure how to break the deadlock. Any ideas?

COLEEN SAYS

Well, it's not as if you've only been together six months. It sounds like you've been with each other for four or five years, but maybe this is the first time you've talked about it seriously and it's thrown up a few doubts or questions.
I think the important thing to do is to keep the momentum going and keep talking about it. In the meantime, it might help you to get your fertility tested and get some indication of what the timeframe is. This is a more urgent dilemma for you and so you have to ask him to be really honest about what he wants. Yes, women do conceive naturally in their 40s, but the odds are stacked against you. So, if you want to try, you need to do it now. Don't sweep this under the carpet and let it drift. Of course you can't force him into doing something he doesn't want to do, but if being a mum is at the top of your list then you might have a big decision to make.

in Bengaluru has increased as compared to the past two years. In 2020, the city reported 632 accidents, followed by 618 in 2021, and then a significant rise to 752 in 2022. One contributing factor to the rising accident numbers is the return to normalcy after two years of covid-related shutdowns and restrictions. Notably, Sundays continue to be the most dangerous day for driving, accounting for 115 accidents, while Saturdays have the fewest at 103.

A city police spokesperson said, "In 2020 and 2021, self-accidents were included in the fatal accidents category. In Bengaluru, the number of accidents has increased by 120 cases, with a corresponding increase of 115 fatalities in 2022 compared to 2020. On average, 163 individuals lose their lives in self-accidents each year. Such accidents can be prevented by ensuring proper vehicle maintenance and practising defensive driving techniques. Drivers must exercise caution while negotiating turns and wear safety seat belts and protective headgear. During rainy and stormy weather, reducing vehicle speed significantly can help."

Another official revealed that over the past three years, an average of 600 males and 94 women were accident victims. "Men aged between 21 and 40 years, as well as women aged between 31 and 50 years, are more vulnerable. In terms of fatal self-accidents, approximately 161 men are involved, whereas three women have lost their lives. This age group is economically productive and the death of breadwinners affects families both financially and socially."

According to the officer, it was crucial to raise awareness about road safety among the youngsters. He said that traffic police have organised numerous road safety lectures.

CYCLONE BIPARJOY: IMD ISSUES HEAVY RAINFALL WARNING FOR MULTIPLE STATES

Damaged temporary structures at a beach, in the aftermath of Cyclone Biparjoy, in Mandvi, on Saturday

#New Delhi

The India Meteorological Department (IMD) said on Saturday that the cyclone Biparjoy is very likely to continue to move east-northeastwards and maintain the intensity of depression during the next 12 hours.

The IMD also issued warning of heavy rainfall over south Rajasthan, north Gujarat, West Bengal, Meghalaya, Tamil Nadu, Kerala, south interior Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh and Sikkim, while light to moderate rainfall is predicted over Gangetic West Bengal, Bihar, Jharkhand, Odisha, Himachal Pradesh and Uttarakhand.

"Heavy to extremely heavy rainfall is likely over south Rajasthan and isolated heavy to very heavy rainfall over adjoining north Gujarat region and Kutch. Light/moderate rainfall at most places with isolated heavy to very heavy rainfall very likely over Northeast India and Sub-Himalayan West Bengal and Sikkim during the next five days. Isolated extremely heavy rainfall is likely over Meghalaya during June 17-19 ," the IMD said in a statement on Saturday.

The IMD further predicted that

IMD also issued warning of heavy rainfall over south Rajasthan, north Gujarat, West Bengal, Meghalaya, Tamil Nadu, Kerala, south interior Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh and Sikkim light isolated to scattered rainfall with thunderstorm and lightning is very likely over Gangetic West Bengal, Bihar, Jharkhand, and Odisha over the next three days, followed by fairly widespread rainfall.

"Light/moderate scattered to fairly widespread rainfall with thunderstorm and lightning is also very likely in isolated places over Himachal Pradesh and Uttarakhand during the next four days, and isolated to scattered rainfall over plains of Northwest India during the next three days," it said.

"Isolated heavy to very heavy rainfall is also likely over southwest Rajasthan from June 17-18, southeast Rajasthan from June 17-19, northwest Madhya Pradesh from June 19-21," it said.

The IMD also predicted that light/moderate scattered to fairly widespread rainfall with thunderstorm and lightning is very likely over South India during the next five days.

"Isolated heavy rainfall is likely over Tamil Nadu during June 17-19, Kerala during June 18-21, and south interior Karnataka during June 19-21. No significant weather change is likely over rest parts of the country during the next five days," the IMD predicted. -IANS that would at least allow people to drive or ride to their nearest station and then take the metro for longer distances. However, it's important to work towards starting feeder bus routes in parallel so that eventually people can shift to public transport for last-mile connectivity as well," he said.

BMRCL Public Relations Officer, Yashwanth Chavan, had previously told Bangalore Mirror that they have provided parking facilities wherever they have enough space. There are also designated parking spaces for cycles at a few stations too, but, there are not many users. Currently, the BMRCL allows foldable cycles into metro coaches. Cyclists have said that it is not a mass solution to first and last-mile connectivity problems.

For an extra punch

Her name just got tougher to spell

Several Bollywood stars have either added an extra letter or removed one from their name due to numerology and other reasons. Ayushmann Khurrana, RajKummar Rao, Ajay Devgn, and more, are a few to name who have changed the spellings of their name. And the latest one to join the bandwagon is actress Jacqueline Fernandez. The Drive fame actress has added an extra e in her name and now it is spelt Jacqueliene.

The change is visible on her Instagram account. Like us, the netizens too saw the change in the spelling and they had hilarious reactions to the same.

One of the netizens commented, "I could never even spell her previous name, now she added more letters to it," While another one wrote, "I really think numerology is one of the biggest Cons that exist.... Best of luck to Jackqueliene!"

It feels like a field day for the fans, they are joking how as if the first name wasn't hard enough to spell that she now added another letter to the same.

Meanwhile, on the work front, Jacqueliene was last seen in 'Ram Setu' and 'Cirkus'. Both films failed to leave a good impression. Up next, she will be seen in 'Crakk' and 'Fateh'.

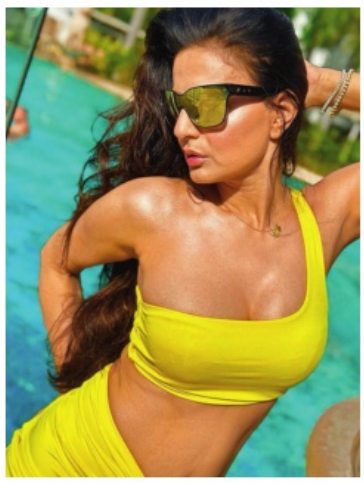
Ameesha Patel surrenders in cheque bounce case



Actor Ameesha Patel on Saturday surrendered before Ranchi Civil Court in connection with a cheque bounce case.

After her surrender, the court granted her conditional bail. She has also been asked to physically appear before the court on June 21.

The case dates back to 2018 when Ameesha came to Ranchi to attend a programme. She met businessman Ajay Kumar Singh there and she discussed with him the financing of a film. Singh owns Lovely World Entertainment. Singh invested in the filmmaking project. However, the film did not see the light of the day.

Singh demanded Ameesha return his money. She returned the Rs 2.50 Crore amount through cheque but the cheque bounced.

In November 2021, Ameesha was in the headlines when her cheque of Rs 32.25 lakh to UTF Telefilms bounced. The news comes at a time when Ameesha is all set to make a silver-screen comeback with 'Gadar 2'.

Alia's 'jet-lagged' Barbie look is a hit

A girl can never go wrong with pink. Actor Alia Bhatt's recent Instagram pictures are proof of this fact.

Alia is currently in Brazil for Netflix's Tudum 2023, where the trailer of her Hollywood debut 'Heart of Stone' will be unveiled.

Before attending one of the events, Alia took to social media and dropped a string of images in which she wore a pink outfit. She called herself 'Barbie' as she gave different expressions.

"This barbie is jet-lagged," Alia captioned the post. Alia looked beautiful in a pink satin skirt that she paired with a matching satin top and oversized blazer.

The pictures garnered several likes and comments. Actor Kareena Kapoor Khan also left in awe with Alia's "Barbie" look.

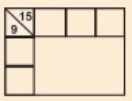
Kakuro

The numbers in the grey squares refer to the sums of the digits that you must fill into the empty spaces directly below or to the right of the grey square containing the number. For instance, in the given example, the 3 boxes horizontally next to 15 must contain 3 digits that add up to 15, whereas for 9, it is the 2 boxes placed vertically under it that must add up to 9. No zeros are used here, only the digits 1 through 9.



Note: A digit cannot appear more than once in any particular digit combination. For instance, in the example, we cannot have the combination of 4+7+4 for 15.

Loop

Rules

» Connect adjacent dots with vertical or horizontal lines, creating a single loop (Fig A). » Crossovers or branches are not allowed (As shown by dotted lines in Fig B). » Numbers in the puzzle indicate the number of lines that should surround it, while empty cells may be surrounded by any number of lines. » You can't draw lines around zeros. » Each puzzle has just one unique solution.

How to begin:

Example (Fig A) – Begin with the zero next to 3. Since no lines can be drawn around zero, mark crosses around it, as shown. Now there is a cross in one space around 3. So we know the three lines of 3 can only be drawn in the remaining three spaces. Next, these lines can only be extended in one direction each. Continue, using the same logic.

Hints: Keep eliminating possibilities by marking crosses in spaces between dots where a line isn't possible, i.e., if you have already completed required lines or where a line extension may create a branch or cause a dead-end (Fig B)

WHAT YOUR STARS SAY TODAY

Aries Mar 21 – Apr 20
Today, you may feel very dull, which may make you lazy and careless. You are likely to be unfocused at work, and impatience may negatively affect you. The health of your kids and spouse may upset you. It is advisable to avoid making investments in assets. Love birds should refrain from engaging in arguments regarding family matters.

Taurus Apr 21 – May 20
Today, you may encounter negative vibrations around you, which can make you unhappy. It is advised to avoid investing in worthless assets. Your friends are unlikely to be supportive today, so you should not expect much help from them, as it may further upset you. It is recommended to follow your intuition before making important decisions today.

Gemini May 21 – Jun 21
Today, you may be able to successfully implement business plans with the support of your subordinates. You might also participate in social or family get-togethers, which can boost your network. There is a likelihood of going on short business-related travels, which may yield benefits in the near future.

Cancer Jun 22 – July 23
Today is a good day for you, as your financial health is likely to be good. You may receive benefits from your past investments, and controlling your spending on unnecessary items can boost your savings. Love birds are advised to maintain politeness during conversations with their partners to avoid conflicts.

Leo Jul 24 – Aug 23
Today, you are blessed by the moon, making it a good day for you. Your vitality and energy levels are high, and you may enjoy your work. Romantic moments with your spouse can improve family harmony. You are likely to make new plans and start new projects, and your attention to detail can help you design the flow chart. Job aspirants will find good employment opportunities. Love birds are advised to avoid discussions on trivial topics.

Virgo Aug 24 – Sep 23
Today, you may feel disappointed, and it is advisable to control your arrogance. Otherwise, speaking without restraint may lead to losses in conversations. Love birds should be cautious during discussions, as they may negatively impact their relationship.

Libra Sep 24 – Oct 22
Today, you are blessed by the moon, and new sources of income may open up for you. Your past investments will start yielding profits, converting losses into gains and boosting your financial health. Health issues related to parents may be resolved.

Scorpio Oct 23 – Nov 22
Today, you may feel very happy and busy at work. Your seniors may appreciate your work, and there may be changes in your position, responsibilities, or promotions. Your opponents and hidden enemies may be under control now. Singles and love birds may make important decisions regarding marriage with the help of relatives or friends.

Sagittarius Nov 23 – Dec 22
Today, the messy situations of the past few days are under control, and you are blessed by the moon. You can now initiate postponed tasks and receive rewards for your hard work. There may be gains in your business, which can boost your finances. You may spend money on artifacts or literature and plan for an overseas trip.

Capricorn Dec 23 – Jan 20
Today, you may be occupied with family issues and explore additional sources of income. You might take an interest in artifacts, movies, and glamour, which can enhance your creativity. Love birds have a clear understanding of their relationships, and students can make progress towards their career goals.

Aquarius Jan 21 – Feb 19
Today, you may not feel well, and health issues might affect your personal and professional life. Spouse's health problems may cause you distress, and your patience may be tested repeatedly. It is advised not to invest in new business projects to avoid losses. Students should avoid indulging in fantasies and focus on working hard in their studies.

Pisces Feb 20 – Mar 20
Today, you are blessed by the positive moon, and you may feel healthy. Previous health issues may be resolved now. Any funds that were stuck somewhere may be recovered. You may also consider applying for a loan to purchase luxury items.
